The Dimension Drifter is the most advanced action shooter and dungeon crawler to ever hit the Net. When the timeline collapsed, humankind was headed towards an apocalyptic fate. Most people are either dead or didn't notice. But some people were able to survive after the timeline collapsed for a short period of time. We can only call these survivors "Drifters". There are very few places they can still hide: the barrier cities that were a remnant of the old world. And the violent pursuers known as "Demons". The mappers and players have been trying to make a collaborative game for over 15 years and we are finally finishing our work on Dimension Drifter. The Demo is a rough demonstration of what you can expect from Dimension Drifter. All 3 acts are included. More features are planned to be added with every update. The full game will be a lot more like an RPG game. Breathe the air of the homeland. Meet the Destroyer, the demigod of the Dimension Drifter. Intoxicated by the blood of his victims, the Destroyer is on a mission to hunt down more human souls for hellfire. Your Challenge - Explore a devastating city full of death and destruction and try to survive as long as you can.- Get yourself a high-tech weapon that you have to use with dexterity, aim and quick reactions - Collect hints and find keys hidden all over the city - Don't get caught in the middle of three teams of hellhounds - Collect a powerful arsenal that will solve all problems - Overcome every single enemy and find a way to get rid of them - Investigate horrifying secrets and secrets of the past - Beware of a deadly time bomb that's about to explode - And that's not all... Add-on v1: Expand your experience with two new and more difficult missions called the "Bachut" and the "Gulag". Add-on v2: What were they searching for...? Add-on v3: Cattle Mutilation Add-on v4: You are not alone Play with a friend! - A Game that you can play together: challenge the other player on the same computer as you - Two-player online Co-op (walkthrough) System requirements: Windows (7/8/10) Minimum: OS: Windows 7 Processor: Intel Core i

There is no bad cops or bad Indians, no pre-fabricated plots, just a lot of white-knuckle tension and shoot-outs that unfold within limited amount of time. The only rules of this game are to: □ hide from the cops and in pretty much any buildings □ stay alive □ stay in control of your actions, and □ come up with your own plan . In particular situations, you may have to shoot or even kill someone to stay alive. . The game includes a full soundtrack with 14 excellent mid-80s and early 90s tunes which were specially made for this game. All of them are superbly played and match the action of the game. . This classic is for fans of big driving action games, and those who love 80s and 90s retro music. . In this game you will travel from the Arizona to the Pacific Ocean and across a land filled with outlaws, KKK, and FBI! . The landscapes are filled with clouds, rainy weather and desert terrain. There are a few cities, mountains, and deserts. . Enemies can be: cops (including SWAT teams), gang members, bikers, mafia, KKK, etc... . If you think you can stand the tension, click 'Yes' to be the fastest cop you ever were! . You will be fully prepared for the most exciting 3D crime action game available! Do you have what it takes to be the greatest super cop in history? In the game you will need to use your intuition, brains, skill, and fighting prowess. As a cop with deadly guns, you are the one the fight, the one who catches criminals and takes them down, and you are the one that can pick them off in different and hilarious ways. Find the wanted ones and catch them, and don't forget to unlock the 40 achievements! . In this game the ground is divided in 2 levels. On the first level you will have to run through the desert which is a place where all the bad guys hide. You have to explore the whole desert to find the wanted ones before they come after you and you will need to use your intuition to chase them and pinpoint their location. Use your gun to take out wanted ones and earn points and enjoy this retro 80s music at the same time. Visit the latest news and you might find some new guns. Play with your c9d1549cdd

What's New in Version 1.02 -New Slime!Behold... the Live Lizard! -Minor fixes The Best VR Games to Play: Tilt shift lenses are "not designed to be zoom lenses", and won't zoom. One of the images taken with a Tilt shift lens looks fuzzy because it is enlarged from an original that was much wider than it was tall, so the Tilt shift lens was used to "squeeze it in". My Tilt/Shift lenses (one Sigma and one Nikon) do provide the user with some extent of zoom, and they can focus at about twice the magnification required for an APS-C DSLR (DSLR system require the maximum magnification to focus at short focal lengths, like the far side of a typical human face). By contrast, the original 28mm prime lens for my D3X did not zoom. Fortunately, both Tilt shift lenses and original 28mm prime lenses can cover the same magnifications. It's just a matter of having the right combination. While I was being suckered by the "Photoshop tilt shift", a bit of searching led me to a page containing descriptions of a lot of different tilt shift lenses. So, before you post that I haven't even tried tilt shift, you should be aware that I have. Since none of the descriptions mentions optical zoom, I looked for descriptions of tilt shift lenses with a flip-down view screen, and a scope meter. From what I could find, it's possible to get a combination of tilt shift and optical zoom. I just got my First DSLR Ever a Nikon D5100 in the mail and I am wondering if my SLR gear would be good for the newer version of "Choosey" like ive seen on this site. I currently have my Canon 40D with a 100-400 and will be getting the Nikon D5100 next week. Ive been looking through all the Lens options and Im super

What's new:

Fret Focus: Circle Divines As musicians, the direction in which we move has become intimately linked with our identity. If we “move” away from a traditional, textual approach, it is because we strive to deconstruct one thing and reassemble it in entirely new ways. It is no longer the Bard, or even the Chordophile, that rouses us from our traditional grooves, it is the baritone saxophonist, the bassist, the multi-instrumentalist, the disc jockey. It is all of these people, all of these facets of our collective, and all these identities, that will ultimately fan the flames of the music that we make. Or, at least, it is the illusion of these facets. For anyone who attempts to pursue a more avant-garde or atonal direction, it is like assuming “the role” of a musician that they have never met or interacted with before. When you finally decide to draw the veil back and step completely outside of your comfort zone, you enter into a new realm of adrenaline and experimentation. The darkness of one night is soon replaced with the reality of one morning and then the euphoria that the situations brings. This journey, though, continues to have its cliff-hangers, twists, turns, sunrises, and sunsets of one’s own self-discovery. The question of all these revelations is how then do we connect these layers of identity? How do we process these atypical emotions we have dealt with throughout the night? Enter the Circle Divines, a band from New Jersey that is wringing these questions from their every facet of transfiguration. Scott: Hi, my name is Scott Daniel McCloskey, this is my “out-of-the-box” alter ego, “Circledes”. When you listen to our music, we want you to forget about prior political and ethnographic expectations; forget about the “traditional” expectations of yourself and the institution that commissions or awards you; forget about the stringent ways of communicating with other people about music. We like to forget all that and we like to get into the dance, so that you too can get into the dance with us and we all get to have a good time! CD: Hi, my name is Melissa and this is my alter ego, “Circle Divines”. Why do we
